Griffin Davis produces San Francisco art show to benefit the 1906 Earthquake Centennial Alliance

SAN FRANCISCO, CA – March 24, 2006 – Griffin Davis LLC, an Atlanta-based art agency announced today that the company will produce a one-night only art event showcasing local emerging artists to commemorate the 1906 Earthquake Centennial Alliance.

The event, San Francisco: My City. My Home. will include art from eight of the Bay Area's talents cityscape artists, and will be held at Belcher Gallery in San Francisco.

"This is an excellent opportunity to showcase talented artists' works during the 1906 Earthquake Centennial of our city" says John McNamara, co-founder of Griffin Davis. "Each piece of art selected for the show captures the beauty of San Francisco in a way that leaves you breathless."

The one-night only event is planned to raise money for the 1906 Earthquake Centennial Alliance and to bring awareness to the public about earthquakes and how to be prepared for them. The Bay Area experiences dozens of earthquakes a year and the Centennial Alliance exists to help the public better understand the dangers and precautions.

"We greatly appreciate being designated the beneficiary of San Francisco: My City. My Home," said Earl Aurelius, Executive Director of the 1906 Earthquake Centennial Alliance. "The proceeds will help finance the printing and distribution of the USGS earthquake preparedness pamphlet entitled, Putting Down Roots in Earthquake Country."

San Francisco: My City. My Home. will be open to the public on April 22, 2006 from 5pm –9 pm at Belcher Gallery located at 69 Belcher Street (at 14th Street), San Francisco, California.
